DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 7, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Maeda.

As per claims 1 and 14, Maeda discloses an air conditioner/method comprising a vapor compression refrigeration cycle and a control unit that prioritizes sensible heat load from startup until normal operation. (See column 12, lines 33-43 regarding, at startup, operating the sensible heat exchanger, stopping the humidifier, and operating the compressor according to the difference between dry bulb temperatures and the temperature setting. These control steps inherently prioritize sensible heat load at startup.)

As per claim 2, Maeda discloses a detector for sensing temperature and humidity in the indoor space (see Table at column 12, lines 45-64).

As per claim 7, the system of Maeda is initially set to prioritize sensible heat at startup (column 12, lines 33-43).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Maeda.

As per claims 3-5, Maeda does not specifically teach the trigger for ending the startup regeneration mode. However, official notice is taken that preset target values, time limits, and manual inputs are all common control system techniques for terminating an operating mode that would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply to the startup regeneration mode of Maeda for the purpose of determining when to end that mode.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6 and 8-13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
